

Research Communications Intern

Why Join Us?

- Collaborate with our Global Program (GP) department to explore and build the foundation for an effective storytelling platform. Use research to educate internal audiences about the meaning and uses of research and data.

You will:

- Collaboratively interpret, simplify and explain technical information for non-technical audiences
- Identify and/or create story leads
- Collaborate on projects through production, ideation, story-pitching and research of internally available content
- Ensure communications are properly branded (logos, templates, etc.).
- Pitch story and content ideas during team meetings

You have:

- Knowledge of digital marketing and/or peer-to-peer fundraising techniques
- Coursework in digital storytelling with a preference for the creation of media such as podcasts and journalistic stories
- Strong organizational skills, attention to detail, and analytical thinking skills
- Ability to develop creative ideas from specified strategies
- Demonstrated expertise in adobe creative suite, iMovie, Excel, and script writing
- Preferred: Experience with data visualization techniques, simple coding and/or macros
- Preferred: Basic understanding of research methods and applications

You study:

- Research, Communications, or a related field of study
