

IT Innovations Intern

Why Join Us?

The IT Innovations team supports a number of initiatives including the For Children collection of websites and mobile apps (www.forchildren.com). This “platform” of websites and apps aims to connect those who have/author holistic child development resources (providers) with those who need them (consumers). It does this by creating a place where providers can submit documents, videos, or even online classes to a website where consumers can access them and take them to the remote corners of the world.

We want passionate people willing to bring their skills, as well as learn new ones, to benefit those who are working with kids in high risk areas.

You will:

- Work with someone in Compassion who is an expert in a certain child development field and help figure out ways to create online classes using that expertise.
- We will teach you the basics of creating a class in Moodle (our online learning tool). You will take the initiative to learn as much as you can about how to create engaging classes that children around the world can take, and/or child workers can take.
- We will provide technical support where necessary but expect you to bring your teaching knowledge to the table.

You have:

- Knowledge of the latest education techniques for various ages.
- Knowledge of learning styles.
- Knowledge of useful ways to take advantage of the internet to teach.
- Experience teaching children or adults preferred, but not required.
- Sensitivity to how different cultures may have dominant learning styles.

You study:

- Education (elementary, secondary, adult, etc.) with experience in taking classes online as well as in a classroom.
